HELD FOR KILLING OF 27 YEARS AGO

Hand Of the Law Reached
Out For Him

AFTER LONG LAPSE OF TIME

Prosperous Missouri Farmer
Convicted of Slaying a Deputy Sheriff.

SHERIFF T. H. BLACK GOT HIM

The Louisville Herald of Thursday says:

Behind the bars of the Jefferson county jail last night slept a prosperous Missouri farmer who for more than a quarter of a century has been dwelling in fancied security, tilling his crops, rearing his children, enjoying the confidence of his neighbors, and walking in the paths of peace. The inexorable hand of the law, after many years of futile groping, closed around him on his Missouri farm last Monday, and this morning he will continue the brief journey which will end in a Kentucky penitentiary.

Nearly twenty-seven years ago, August 2, 1886, Richard Allen, then aged 32 years, shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Charles Tucker at Liberty in Casey county, Kentucky, following a quarrel. Public sentiment was divided, much was said for and against the slayer; but, anyway, Allen was indicted, arrested, tried, convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to spend two years in the penitentiary.

Such was the decision of the law, but the Fates, and Allen, ruled otherwise. Under the statutes the convicted man had sixty days in which he might appeal to a higher court. In the meantime he was confined in the county jail under a strong guard to protect him from the possible vengeance of aroused kinsmen of the man whom he had slain.

One morning when the jail attaches were taking food to the convicted man, they found that Allen had disappeared. Relatives of the dead man spurred the officers of the law to diligent search, but all of their efforts proved vain.

Last night, peering through the bars of the jail, Allen, now an aged, gray-haired man, told a reporter for the Herald his sudden flight from Casey county and his industrious efforts to live entirely in consonance with the sternest dictates of the law.

After leaving Kentucky, Allen said he went to Missouri. There he remained one year, when the call of his home State became too strong and he returned, settling in a county less than 150 miles from the scene of the killing for which he had been convicted. For fifteen years, according to the halting story he told at the jail last night, he resided in Kentucky, daily meeting officers of the law. Some of them, he thinks, must have known that he was a fugitive from justice, but no attempt was made to deprive him of his liberty.

Finally, Allen went back to Missouri with his family. Since then he has been living on a farm near Madrid in that State, keeping, he claims, within the strictest letter of the law, the remembrance of his trial and conviction growing yearly dimmer in his memory.

Four sons and three daughters were born to him. All he reared to maturity until several of them married and left the parental nest. Busily engaged on his rich farm of 165 acres, cultivated with the aid of three of his sons, he has spent the intervening years, respected by his neighbors.

There it was, after twenty-seven years, that Sheriff Thomas H. Black, of Hartford, Ohio county, Ky., found him.

"I was plowing when Sheriff Black, accompanied by several deputies whom I knew, came to my farm," said Allen. "I left the plow in the furrow and went to meet them. Little suspecting that they wanted me. We chatted a few minutes, and then one of the deputies said:

"Well, Mr. Allen, I've got a writ for you."

"For me?" Allen repeated in surprise, "why I haven't done anything. It must be a mistake. I've been living here for fifteen years and haven't done anything contrary to the law."

"Yes, but this writ is older still than that," the deputy gravely explained.

"I couldn't imagine what it was," said Allen, "until Sheriff Black, whom I hadn't noticed particularly, stepped up and said:

"Hello, Tom."

"Then I recognized him and guessed what it must be."

Allen, according to his story, immediately consented to return to Kentucky without waiting for them to obtain requisition papers. "I went to the house and changed my clothes," he said, "and then came on with Mr. Black."

His arrest came as a complete surprise, both to himself, members of his family and the neighbors.

Allen said that he intended to endeavor to obtain a pardon, but doesn't know how successful he may be. He feels, he said, that many members of the family, descendants of the man he killed, will endorse his plea for pardon. Some of them, however, still hold the grudge against him, he thinks. If the worst comes, he will serve his term with fortitude, however.

Allen would not discuss the killing much. He fears that if he gives out interviews concerning it that he may arouse further feeling concerning himself. He insists, however, that he killed Tucker in self-defense and that he did not get a fair trial. He charged that his conviction was the result of perjured testimony.

Sheriff Black, the arresting officer, spent last night at the Willard Hotel. To a reporter for the Herald he gave the meager facts in his possession concerning the case. He could not give the details of the shooting.

He went to Missouri, he said, and made the arrest at the instance of Charles Tucker, Jr., of Frankfort, a son of the man who was slain. Mr. Tucker, he said, began communicating with him several months ago about the case. Numbers of Casey county people are now living in the part of Missouri in which Allen made his home and the tracing of the convict was comparatively easy. Sheriff Black indicated that the man might have been arrested years before, had relatives of the family taken the initiative sooner.

Sheriff Black remarked that perhaps it was for the best after all that Allen fled from justice as he did. Feeling in those days ran high in Casey county. Both families had many friends and a feud might have resulted which would have extended itself even to this generation. Allen's absence for more than a quarter of a century, even though the ends of justice were defeated, has given such feeling a chance to die out.

Note—For several years Allen lived in Ohio county in the vicinity of Narrows, and is said to have married there and still has relatives in this county. For several months Charles Tucker, Jr., of Frankfort, Ky., son of the man Allen killed, has been in communication with Sheriff Black, and after Mr. Tucker had finally located Allen, Sheriff Black was notified. There was a reward of $300 offered for the arrest of Allen, and it will be paid to Mr. Black.

A Christmas Story.

Outside it was snowing hard and the teacher considered it her duty to warn her charges.

"Toys and girls should be very careful to avoid colds at this time," she said solemnly. "I had a darling little brother, only 7 years old. One day he went out in the snow with his new sled and caught cold. Pneumonia set in, and in three days he was dead."

A hush fell upon the schoolroom; then a youngster in the back row stood up and asked:

"Where's his sled?"

That's Different.

"There can be no effect without a cause," observed the Sage.

"Oh, yes there can," observed the Fool. "How about when a woman changes her mind?"

OLD PAPER THAT BREATHED SPIRIT

Of Partisanship Prevalent
In War Times.

ACCOUNTS OF THE INCIDENTS

Which Transpired When the Whole Country Was
"Het" Up.

STORY OF JOHN WILKES BOOTH

There recently came to the Editorial Rooms a copy of a most interesting old newspaper which is very valuable to the people of the present day in a historical way. The paper is a copy of the "Daily Union Press," a Union paper published in Louisville during the period of the Civil War. The paper is dated May 2, 1865, a short time after the assassination of President Lincoln, and shows well the excitement and turmoil which was rampant in those troublous times.

The paper, out of respect to the martyred President, has its columns on the front and back pages bordered in black, and heavy black headlines throughout the paper tell the latest news from the few closing struggles of the war, the movements of the funeral cortege of the slain President and the rumors of the cabinet's resignation.

The paper is very partisan in character and although truthful in giving the news items, never loses an opportunity to throw a slug at the "Rebs." Throughout, the President of the fallen Confederacy is termed "Jeff Davis," and the work of Booth is laid as much as possible to the hated Southerners. This paper, however, was not alone in having such a partisan tone, for almost all the papers in the country at that time, both Northern and Southern, were bitterly partisan in their policies.

An article which is particularly interesting and valuable is one relating to the incidents of the memorable Sultana disaster. This calamity was one of the greatest which has ever occurred in this country and was attended by an enormous destruction of life, aggregating over 1,400 lives—a record not equaled again until the sinking of the Titanic last year. The "Press" in this article says:

"There are all sorts of wild rumors as to the origin of the explosion. Some suppose there was carelessness, incompetency, or malicious intent, but there is no ground whatever for such reports. The officers of the Sultana seem to have been faithful, competent men. That there was too large a number of passengers on board is true, but the boat was strong, and the engine had only recently passed inspection. A competent man, who was on board, says the boat did not leak a particle, and that the officers did their duty most faithfully, both before and at the time of the disaster." The Sultana was a large boat plying on the Mississippi, and on a trip up the river on a day in the latter part of April, 1865, had about 2,300 passengers on board. During the passage a terrific explosion occurred, the cause of which was unknown, which wrecked the vessel and caused the death of nearly fifteen hundred of the passengers. The greater part of the passengers consisted of Union soldiers who were on their way home from the battlefield.

There are several lengthy articles in the paper on the escape and capture of John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of the President. These tell in a very descriptive way his escape from the theater, after catching his spur in the American flag which draped the President's box, and falling to the stage below, breaking one of the small bones in his leg. This injury, according to the "Press," proved to be a great impediment to Booth in making his escape. The capture of Booth and the man who was serving as his guide is told in these words by the paper:

"On Sunday afternoon Booth and Harrod, (the guide) crossed the Potomac at Swan Point, a short distance below Matthews' Point, and passing through Port Royal, enroute to Louisa court house, were captured, as previously described, in the stable at Garrett's place. Facts have come to light which show conclusively that Booth and his accomplice had, before carrying their plans into execution, decided upon the routes to be taken in making their escape. Maps are understood to be in the possession of the Government which are known to have belonged to these parties. They bear distinct marks of the routes laid out by them. Booth and Harrod were to escape to Rebel-dom and seek Jeff Davis' protection, who was finally to assist them in leaving the country." This last statement was doubtless untrue, although the "Press" may have been thus informed at the time.

A letter which Booth wrote to his mother on the same day that he committed the murder is given in this issue of the "Press," and will be of interest now. The letter follows:

"April 14, 2 a.m.—Dearest Mother: I know you expect a letter from me, and am sure you will hardly forgive me. But indeed, I have had nothing to write about. Everything is dull; that is, has been till last night. (The Illumination.) Everything was bright and splendid. More so in my eyes if it had been a display in a nobler cause. But so goes the world. Might makes right. I only drop you these few lines to let you know I am well, and to say that I have not heard from you. Excuse brevity; am in haste. Had one from Rose. With best love to you all. I am your affectionate son, ever, JOHN."

Other items of interest found in the paper are the arrest of Ex-Gov. Alken, of South Carolina, which was ordered by President Johnson on account of the former's refusal to take the oath of allegiance; the flight of "Jeff Davis," a portion of Sherman's army coming North from Georgia; and the crowds pouring into the Chicago court house to look at the remains of the martyred President.

In a column on one of the inside pages headed "River Matters," we find the following: "Green River Packet for Bowling Green and all Way Landings. The new and light draught steamer 'J. R. Hoyle,' Jesse Greer, Master, R. M. Johnson, Clerk, leaves for the above and intermediate landings every Tuesday, at 5 p. m. Positively, from the city wharf. For freight or passage, apply on board or to B. J. Caffrey, Agent, 137 Wall St."

It has been a long time since the "Daily Union Press" harangued its readers with the wartime talk of fifty years ago, and kept alive and fostered the spirit of antagonism and bitterness between the North and South. The spirit of the paper is in striking contrast to the spirit of American newspapers of the present day. The separated sections of the country are being brought together and out of the parts formerly divided by hatred, envy and political differences, is being made a great harmonious whole, and there is no longer any East or West or North or South, but all have been merged into a united country, cemented by friendship and consecrated by the blood of those who fell, whether they wore the blue or the gray. ENGAGEMENT OF LESS THAN HOUR

the Civil War.

GREEN RIVER BRIDGE BATTLE

At Tebb's Bend, Taylor County, Was Attended By Heavy Losses.

GREAT HEROISM WAS SHOWN

The following sketch of the battle of Green River Bridge was written by former Congressman W. P. Kimball, of Lexington:

"July 1 marked the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Green River Bridge. Gen. John H. Morgan was on his way to invade Indiana and Ohio, and when he approached the south end of the bridge across Green river, at Tebb's Bend, in Taylor county, he found that a detachment of Federal troops under Col. Orlando H. Moore, of the Twenty-fourth Michigan Infantry, had fortified their position with intrenchments thrown up the night previous, and by fallen trees. The position of the Federals was naturally a strong one and very difficult of approach.

"Gen. Morgan sent a flag of truce, borne by his brother, Capt. Charlton H. Morgan, to the Federal Commander, demanding his surrender. Col. Moore bowed and smiled and told Capt. Morgan to tell Gen. Morgan that 'the Fourth of July was a bad time for an American soldier to surrender,' and declined to do so. Thereupon a part of three of the Confederate regiments assaulted the Federal works, and after repeated attempts were driven back with great slaughter. Finding that the Federals could not be dislodged, Gen. Morgan withdrew his forces, and crossing Green river at a ford some distance above the bridge, continued on his way to the Ohio river, which he crossed at Brandenburg, on July 6.

"The engagement lasted less than an hour, but the Confederates lost thirty-six killed and forty-six wounded, while the Federal loss was six killed and twenty-three wounded.

"The Confederate loss in officers was especially severe. Col. Walter Chenaunt, of Madison county, was killed, and Lieut. Col. James H. McCreary took command of the regiment. Col. Chenaunt was a man of great popularity and was a brother of Dr. Robert C. Chenaunt, formerly superintendent of the Eastern Kentucky Hospital. Among the other officers slain was Maj. Thomas Y. Trent, Capt. Alex. Tribble and Lieuts. Cowan, Holloway and Ferguson. It is said that altogether Gen. Morgan had seventeen commissioned officers either killed or wounded.

"Col. Moore took good care of the Confederate wounded and proved himself to be a humane as well as brave officer. He was for a while provost marshal of Louisville and after the war was a successful lawyer in Michigan, serving for some time as prosecuting attorney for his district.

"The number of Federal troops engaged has been variously stated. Collins' History gives the number at 200. Gen. Duke, in his history of Morgan and his men, fixes the number at 400. Col. Moore claimed that the correct number was 140. The number of Confederates actually engaged did not exceed 600, because the peculiar formation of the ground was such that a larger force could not be brought into action. Col. Chenaunt's regiment, which was largely recruited in Madison county, sustained the severest loss of either of the three regiments engaged.

"The number of men engaged in the battle of Green river bridge was small and the fight itself merely an incident in the most spectacular and disastrous cavalry raid in the history of the Civil War, but the gallantly heroic display on both sides by the officers and men engaged was no less marked than that displayed at the same hour by the charge of McKett's division through the wheat field and up the heights at Gettysburg, and their repulse by the Federals at the point where the good tide of the Civil War was reached."

ACCIDENT LOVE-MAKING
FROM CRUTCH OF A TREE

Chicago, Ill., July 17.—John Wodjinski's method of love-making goes back to the days when anthracite romances used to hang by their tails and curl love songs all night long. He put his theories into practice the night of May 3. To-day he was fined $5 and costs by Judge Sobath, who could feel no sympathy for the unconventional wooing.

Sophia Emmerling had retired for the night. The moon shone softly through the trees and stole into her bedroom window at 2970 North Ridgeway avenue. Sophia dreamed peacefully. John Wodjinski strode through the night with cavernous emotions stirring in his breast. He entered the Emmerling yard and climbed a tree. He straddled a branch opposite Sophia's window and began to "meow" like a cat. To the girl thus rudely awakened he made love in a voice that could be heard for a block.

Mrs. Anna Emmerling, the girl's mother, called the police. Wodjinski was yanked from romance to the jail. Six days later he married another girl.

"I didn't mind meow," said Wodjinski in court to-day. "I found another girl to marry me before the week was out, but I tore my clothes when I climbed out of the tree." The fine followed.

MULLENBERG IS TO BE
DRY—COURT'S DECISION

Greenville, Ky., July 16.—Muhlenberg county will be dry, according to an opinion given by Judge W. P. Sandridge in the contested election case in the Circuit Court here. This case was submitted for trial at the April term. The opinion of the court was handed down to-day.

Muhlenberg county went dry by a large majority at the election held for that purpose, and was contested by the "wets" on the idea that Judge Rice acted fraudulently in ordering the election after the petitions calling for it had been filed on Saturday and the election ordered on the following Monday, without giving the "wets" time to secure further evidence.

In his opinion Judge Sandridge says: "The county court heard all of the evidence that was then offered by the parties. It is true that the judge refused to continue the case to another day, in order to give the parties opposing the election an opportunity to secure further evidence. The granting of a continuance for this purpose was a matter purely within the discretion of the county judge. Such action on his part would not invalidate the election unless he acted fraudulently. I do not think the evidence would justify me in concluding that his conduct was improper or that his acts were wrongful and fraudulent."

An appeal will be taken by the "wets" and will probably stand for trial in the Court of Appeals at the January, 1914, term.

BABY'S CRADLE.

We saw an old-fashioned little cradle go by the office door a few days ago. It was empty, carried on the shoulders of a negro man. We don't know whose it was, but it brought back quite a flood of memories.

Such articles of household furniture are not used much nowadays. They have quite gone out of style. Modern babies have to go to sleep without rocking. Maybe it is best, according to scientific ideas. We don't know. But somehow there has always seemed something a little sacred about a baby's cradle. It used to be the mother's family altar, excepting religious worship. In it were contained the hopes and fears, the laughter and tears of all that embraced the tender emotions of a loving heart. It seemed that one approached nearest heaven to tiptoe and peep at its precious contents. And indeed it was so. For how closer do we get to the Great White Throne than to gaze upon the latest product from the Father of all spirits?

Sometimes the cradle was the bier of the occupant, and after that it seemed more sacred still. Often it was the sick bed where the mother watched throughout sleepless nights with tear-flooded eyes as she bowed over the infant, suffering. What older mother cannot recall these agonizing hours? What heartaches divided the minutes which were a constant prayer for recovery?

The experience at a baby's cradle is not even a memory to any of us only those who have had babies of our own to repose in these now discarded articles of the nursery. When we grow older we remembered "little brother" or "little sister" and the cradle's tender associations therewith, but the experiences of our own occupancy are sealed mostly in a mother's heart.

Sometimes it is a long while "from the cradle to the grave," and happy memories intervene. Again it is only a few days or months or years, and the shadow of sorrow hangs over it all. But across the tide of years which embraces the longer route come memories of dimpled little cheeks and laughing eyes and little baby hands uplifted to the happy face above. For he or she who has not felt the pure and tender touch of baby arms around the neck has never known what it is to really live. And perhaps the greatest sorrow is that which stills these baby hands and gives them the semblance of marble known so well.

But baby's cradle has gone on up the street, in fact as well as memory. It is getting to be more a memory than a fact every day. Soon it will get to be nearly as much of a curiosity as an old spinning wheel. But time cannot dim its precious memories.

At the closing of life's fitful hour and the opening up of eternity's long day, the main question of all the human race should be "What have I made out of life's portion as given unto me?" No man can say he has lived well or profitably unless he has done good in life in proportion to his opportunities. The mere accumulation of dollars is not of itself a praiseworthy record. There are usually more useful and worthy citizens than those solely engaged in this occupation. "Life is real, life is earnest," and the most worthy life is that which is worth most to its fellow creatures, met upon the way. At reaping time, what was sown will be in evidence.

Human life seems very cheap these days. Between the chauffeur who killed a woman in Louisville and was fined $300, and the Nashville (Tenn.) woman who went to a man's place of business and killed him, with five days in jail as the penalty, there is a line of similar offenses with proportionately light punishments. The woman killer, it is supposed, was excused on account of her sex, while the chauffeur, it is said, had a "pull" in some way. In either case, the penalty seems a travesty upon justice. The figure of blind-folded Justice holding the scales seems to have gone out of style.

Mr. Bryan says his present salary of $12,000 a year is not sufficient to cover his expenses and therefore he has to take to the lecture platform. It looks like a thousand dollars a month ought to run almost any man and his family, but Mr. Bryan knows his "business."

NO CHANGE IS MADE IN THE SCHOOL PER CAPITA

Frankfort, Ky., July 18.—Based on an estimate of $3,035,000 revenue for the present fiscal year, the school per capita apportionment will remain $4, the same as last year. The total scholastic census is 721,813, a decrease of 12,236 from last year. This is due to the close scrutiny of returns and represents a trimming in the returns, allowing for a general increase of 25 per cent in the scholastic population from year to year. This estimate of revenue would permit of a per capita apportionment of $4.20, but the possibility of revenue falling short of the estimate, made it advisable, Sept. Hamlett said, to allow a margin.

A comparison of the census of 1912 and 1913 follows:
Rural—Census, 1912, 533,437 white, 57,602 colored; total, 590,520. Census 1913, 531,897 white, 52,946 colored; total, 584,843.
Cities—Census 1912, 116,376 white, 27,114 colored; total, 143,520. Census 1913, 111,484 white, 23,486 colored, total 135,970.

CAMDEN FOR GOVERNOR—SOME PROGNOSTICATIONS

"You political operators who have been mentioning Johnson N. Camden in connection with the race for United States Senator and a diplomatic appointment under President Wilson, have got the wrong sow by the ear. You just keep your eye on the Woodford county statesman and see if he doesn't shy his castor into the race for Governor on the Democratic ticket in 1915," said a well known politician to-day. Should Col. Camden "cut in" the gubernatorial race, he would make it mighty interesting for the rest of the aspirants, and recent developments might indicate that the honor is not wholly averse to him.—W. S. K. in Louisville Times.

Mr. Camden has done much for the Democratic party of Kentucky, is an able, faithful, fighting Democrat, and if he has political ambitions there are thousands of Democrats who know his worth and appreciate his services to the party who will rally round his flag. He is not only a good Democrat but a man of ability and high character, and would adorn the governorship or any other position in the gift of the party.—[Park City News.]

NATIONS AROUSED BY CONDITIONS

In Mexico and Want Uncle Sam To Act.

AMBASSADOR'S SCALP SOUGHT

European Nations Say They Want Monroe Doctrine Strictly Applied.

JAPAN WANTS TO TAKE HAND

The New York American of Thursday under a Washington date says:

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan, thoroughly aroused and alarmed by the demands of Great Britain that the United States bring about peace in Mexico, sent post-haste to-day for Ambassador Wilson from the City of Mexico.

The Administration now knows that England is not asking irrelevant questions about the nonrecognition of Huerta, but that she is asking the United States to set up to or abandon the Monroe Doctrine as to Mexico. In other words, the European nations, led and probably egged on by Great Britain, demand that the United States make peace promptly in Mexico, or let other nations cut the Gordian knot of Mexican international politics and policies.

The Administration realizes that either this Government has not been kept informed of the international plot going on in Mexico City, or that it has been misinformed by some of its important agents in Mexico City as to what was passing under their very eyes.

It is declared that the official scalp of Ambassador Wilson is sought.

Notwithstanding the positive statement that Ambassador Wilson has been called here for consultation with the President, it is very well understood that he is coming here for explanation, because to a certainty the storm at Mexico City burst on the State Department and the White House suddenly in all its dangerous importance and potentialities for protracted trouble.

Great Britain is the nation which has served formal notice on the State Department that there must be peace in Mexico, and with this goes the necessary statement that the United States must bring about this peace or that Great Britain, acting jointly with the nations represented at Mexico, will bring about that peace whether the United States participates or not in the act.

Great Britain is on record in the Peruvian dispute some months ago as admitting and pointing out that it is the duty of the United States to deal with the Western continent republics.

The trouble in this case, however, is that the duty of the United States, as it is understood by Great Britain and the diplomatic corps in Mexico City, has not been performed, and neither the press in the United States or any foreign nation has been informed since March 4 at what time the United States would relieve the foreign nations in Mexico of the duty of bringing about peace there themselves.

No one here expects Ambassador Wilson to go back to Mexico City as Ambassador of the United States. It is known that he has got along well with the Huerta Government, both socially and otherwise, and, as a matter of fact, aside from the flimsiest kind of technicality, Ambassador Wilson has recognized the Huerta Government whether the United States has recognized it or not.

The shock which has been given to President Wilson and to Secretary Bryan by Great Britain is that she is not asking for the recognition of Huerta, but that she is asking the United States if she will or will not do her duty in Mexico under the Monroe Doctrine, or let the world know that this Government excepts Mexico from the operation of the Monroe Doctrine.

England's position is regarded as the natural result of the quarrel of Great Britain with the United States over the Panama Canal tolls affair and of the quarrel of Japan, Great Britain's ally, with the United States over the California land-law affair.

Both Great Britain and Japan

look precisely the same attitude in their quarrels with the United States, and they both assert that the United States has violated a treaty, and they are demanding satisfaction—Great Britain by arbitration, Japan in a final note which is soon to come to the United States.

What the President Wants.
Washington, July 19.—The President is anxious that the people of the United States for the present treat the "Mexican situation" as follows:

Believe no stories of anti-American demonstrations or outrages against foreigners and of wrecking of properties unless fully verified by our Government.

View every report emanating from "unofficial circles" with suspicion, as being inspired by financial and political intrigues to force this Government to recognize the assassins' government of Mexico.

Give the President and his advisers a chance to secure a satisfactory report on conditions in Mexico before passing judgment on what should be done.

Do not worry about war or intervention, neither of which are in any way justified by present conditions.

TALK OF INTERURBAN LINE TO OHIO COUNTY

The Owensboro Messenger of Thursday says:

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Taylor left for Louisville Wednesday morning. Mr. Taylor has had his headquarters in the Rudd House for the past three months, from where he has been directing operations in the Ohio county oil fields. Mr. Taylor has obtained oil leases on several hundred acres of land in the adjoining county, under which it is thought that there is a good flow of oil. His operations up to this time have been successful, as he has struck several flows that are promising and on which derricks are now being erected.

There is a great deal of activity in the oil fields of Ohio county at present, and there is being created considerable of a flurry among the owners of land in the vicinity. Land on which leases were obtained a year and a half ago at a dollar an acre are now selling at very near the value of the land at that time. Mr. Taylor is of the opinion that these fields, when developed, will mean much to Owensboro. He is confident that there is oil in paying quantities under the surface of the lands which are now being drilled. Should this prove correct it will attract the attention of capital such as no other commodity has been able to do. Talk of an interurban connection between Owensboro and the oil fields is being heard, and will almost become a certainty in the event of the prospecting in that quarter becoming a reality.

Help for Those Who Have Stomach Trouble.

After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.—Samuel Boyer, Folsom, Iowa. This medicine is for sale by all dealers. (Advertisement.)

It Always Helps

says Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky., in writing of her experience with Cardui, the woman's tonic. She says further: "Before I began to use Cardui, my back and head would hurt so bad, I thought the pain would kill me. I was hardly able to do any of my housework. After taking three bottles of Cardui, I began to feel like a new woman. I soon gained 35 pounds, and now, I do all my housework, as well as run a big water mill."

I wish every suffering woman would give a trial. I still use Cardui when I feel a little bad, and it always does me good."

Headache, backache, side ache, nervousness, tired, worn-out feelings, etc., are sure signs of womanly trouble. Signs that you need Cardui, the woman's tonic. You cannot make a mistake in trying Cardui for your trouble. It has been helping weak, ailing women for more than fifty years.

BASEBALL.

Last Wednesday afternoon at East End Park the Hartford Oil
Magnates crossed bats with the fast
Hardinsburg aggregation in a contest that was a joy to the assembled crowd of ever-faithful fans. The heralded prowess of the Breckenridge boys proved to be a reality and probably the best performance of the season was staged. In spite of their recent disastrous defeat, the home boys were in fine fettle and "came back" with a vengeance.
The visitors were also in fine form and a swift game was the result.
The official boss of proceedings was our old stand-by, R. T. Collins, and he performed in his usual satisfactory manner. Mack Brown was the star-artist for Hardinsburg, while Ditto did the backstopping. Rickard and Thorpe were on the points for Hartford. The game was an exceedingly close one, the score being 1 and 1 till the last of the eighth inning, and it looked for awhile like it was bound to be an extra-inning affair. The final count was 2 to 1 in favor of the locals:

HEALTHY HORSES

With good teeth and plenty of time to masticate their food are not greatly benefited by ground grain.
All American and European tests show this. For hard working horses, however, with but little time in the stable, it is generally believed that all grains should be ground.

ness, and can furnish ground or un-ground grain that is best adapted to

THE ATROCITIES OF BULGARIANS

Are Described By King Constantine.

EYES OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS

Gouged Out—Victims Frightfully Tortured—Cities Laid Waste.

PILLAGE AND MURDER GALORE

New York, July 19.—King Constantine of Greece, from his headquarters at Hadji Belik, near Serres, sends to the Associated Press a detailed account of the atrocities of the Bulgarians in Macedonia. He declares that only the precipitate flight of the inhabitants of the villages and towns prevented a still greater slaughter.

The following is the King's message, through Col. Doumanli, chief of general staff of His Majesty:

"Associated Press, New York.—Hadji Belik, July 17.—In reply to your dispatch of the 16th instant I have the honor to communicate to you the following information on the Bulgarian atrocities committed at the outset of hostilities against the Greek and Mussulman inhabitants of Macedonia.

"The first city to be scourged was Nigrita. A large number of its people who had remained at their homes after the events occurring in the Pangheon district were massacred by the retreating enemy, who did not fail to light the path of their flight by the flames of the city to which they had applied the torch.

"The correspondent of the Le Temps and the Daily Telegraph who visited the locality the day after the massacres, merely confirmed in greater detail the dispatches of the commanders of our troops.

"The precipitate flight of the peasants in the surrounding villages is the only reason why we have not a greater number of victims to deplore.

"On our left wing 700 Mussulmans of the environs of Kilikish, a nest of Bulgarian Comitdjis (irregular troops) shared the same fate. Two of our officers who in a bayonet assault had been left lying wounded on the field a few steps from the enemy's trenches, were found, when the attack was renewed, to have had their eyes gouged out.

"At Dolma, before their hurried flight, the enemy dragged the Metropolitan and thirty of the leading citizens from their homes. They have never been seen again.

"The religious leader of the Mussulmans, with tears in his eyes, told us of the spoliation and pillage of the Bulgarian officers and soldiers.

"At Strumitza, fortunately, the enemy had time to kill only two of the persons imprisoned. But all these things are as nothing compared with what happened at Dimirbissar. Seres and Doxato, where everything was sacked by fire and sword.

"The city of Seres is nothing more than a mass of smoking ruins, filled with mutilated corpses of old men, women and children.

"The Consuls General of Italy and Austria at Saloniki who visited Seres for the purpose of establishing to what extent their nations have suffered, have told us that the accounts published in the newspapers gave but a faint idea of the terrible reality.

"At Dimirbissar the exhumation of the mutilated bodies of the Metropolitan and the leading citizens have convinced us that our enemy is not satisfied to pillage, burn, despoil and murder, but he rejoices in torturing his victims.

"Doxato is no longer anything but a pool of blood. Of its 3,500 inhabitants only 150 remained. A great number of the little villages along the route taken by the fleeing army were the scenes of like atrocities."

WAITED 50 YEARS, THEN SUES FOR HEART BALM

Patterson, N. J., July 21.—Miss Emma Mahoney 67 years old, of Wooster, O., asks a heart balm of $25,000 from John Wolf, a 77-year-old veteran of the civil war, and a retired merchant, in papers which have been served upon him here. Miss Mahoney asserts that she has not seen Mr. Wolf since their separation in '63, when he went to the front, after it is alleged, he had promised to wed her. She says she has waited 50 years in the hope that her sweetheart of youthful days would some day wed her, and that she was recently encouraged by a second proposal of marriage by mail but later received word that the marriage would never take place.

She has forwarded scores of alleged love letters; many of them containing poems.

A FEMALE RAIL PARTY DOES FINE EXECUTION

Waukegan, Ill., July 19.—Mrs. John H. Richardson, wife of a crippled keeper of a general store, at Volo, Ill., who has been charged with being more than friendly with William Dunnill, her brother-in-law, was kidnapped by a band of women, who rode her on a rail about a quarter of a mile and then threw her into a lake.

After the bath, which was accompanied by kicks and pelting with slinky mud, the women gave her 24 hours in which to leave town. As Mrs. Richardson had not left Wednesday night, they again descended upon the house, armed with a pall of hot tar, but were frustrated in their attempts to apply it, the woman remaining in safety behind barred doors.

Dunnill has left Volo, his wife mortgaging their home in order to get him the money.

The "rail" party had been contemplated for more than a year.

BILLION EGGS STORED IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, July 19.—More than a billion eggs are on ice, according to the report of forty-five public refrigerators in the United States, just issued. The figures account for 2,992,800 cases in storage, with thirty dozen eggs to the case, as compared with 3,330,500 cases last year at this time.

With storage eggs priced at $7.20 a case, these early July holdings this year are worth $21,441,160 at wholesale. The average consumption of eggs in Greater New York is 3,000,000 dozen a week.

Take Plenty of Time to Eat.

There is a saying that "rapid eating is slow suicide." If you have formed the habit of eating too rapidly you are most likely suffering from indigestion or constipation which will result eventually in serious illness unless corrected. Digestion begins in the mouth. Food should be thoroughly masticated and insalivated. Then when you have a fullness of the stomach or feel dull and stupid after eating, take one of Chamberlain's Tablets. Many severe cases of stomach trouble and constipation have been cured by the use of these tablets. They are easy to take and most agreeable in effect. Sold by all dealers. (Advertisement.)

FAST TRAIN WRECKED NEAR CENTRAL CITY

Central City, Ky., July 20.—The engine, tender, baggage car, smoker and a day coach of train No. 101 on the Illinois Central, which left Louisville at noon, was derailed two and one-half miles east of here this afternoon. Engineer William Curley and Fireman R. C. Ludlow, both of Louisville, were seriously injured. Extra Fireman C. A. Leatherman, also of Louisville, escaped with no more serious injury than a strain to his feet when he jumped from the engine, and a cut on his face.

The accident occurred on a curve on what is known as Baxter farm. The cause is not definitely known, but is believed to be due to the breaking of the forward truck of the tender.

Note—Three Hartford people were on the train when it was wrecked—John King, son Charlie King and Earl Barnes.

A CARD.

To the Democrats of Ohio county: In presenting my claim for the Democratic nomination for County Court Clerk, will say, if nominated, I will use all honorable means to secure the election of myself and the entire ticket in the final race at the November election. If nominated and elected, I will do my utmost to make the whole people a palatating and faithful official as I would have done had I been successful in my former race for this office, when the whole ticket went down in defeat in the Republican landslide in the year 1905.

I feel that we have a much brighter prospect in store for our nominees, whoever they may be, at the coming November election and would certainly appreciate it very much if the Democrats of Ohio county see fit to make me their standard-bearer for this office. If, however, in the wisdom of the Democrats at the August primary, another is selected, I pledge my hearty support to the nominee, whoever he may be. With best wishes for the numerous friends who solicited and have so nobly stood by me in this race for the nomination, I will close by saying that if each one of my friends will work from now until the close of the polls the second of August, I do not fear the result.

Yours truly,
LON SMITH.

CURES HOG CHOLERA

Last spring cholera got among my hogs and one died before I really knew they were sick. Two others were very sick when I noticed them, and as I had bought two of your Bricks for the horses, I decided to give it a trial. I dissolved half a Medicated Salt Brick in some water, giving this to the two sick hogs and in a few hours I gave the other half to them. They seemed to improve so nicely, I bought several of the Bricks and gave it to all my hogs and have not lost another one with any kind of disease. One of the sick hogs lost all of his hair, so this is proof that they had cholera.

A large pump will be installed as soon as it is received, which will take from the mine ten million gallons of water each day and it will require the pump to run steadily for sixty days, which means that there are now six hundred billion gallons of water in the mine.

Twelve men have been working in three shifts for more than a month in opening a tunnel from the river into the shaft of the mine, which was completed Wednesday at noon, and when the opening was made into the shaft by means of several sticks of dynamite, the water poured into the river, the stream reaching nearly half way across the river and making a noise that could be heard for a long distance.

SENATORS ENGAGE IN A BITTER ROW

Over Bryan Lecturing in Vacation Time.

JAMES DEFENDS COMMONER

Bristow, Townsend, et al.,
Much Worked Up Over
Bryan's Action.

SILLY RESOLUTION DEFEATED

Washington, July 18.—Secretary Bryan's policy of lecturing in vacation time involved the Senate in a bitter controversy to-day. Senators Townsend and Bristow, being conspicuous in their criticism of the Secretary, and Senators James, of Kentucky, and Lewis, of Illinois, coming to the cabinet officer's defense.

Before the debate ended, charges and counter charges between Senators on the two sides of the chamber had brought the Senate to a high pitch of excitement. Senator Ashurst produced an old letter of Senator Bristow's, which he declared indicated that Mr. Bristow in 1906 had been perfectly willing to take a Federal position and devote only part of his time to it.

Senator Bristow retorted with the charge that Senator Ashurst had spent over $100 of public funds sending private telegrams that should have been paid for from his own pocket, a charge denied by Senator Ashurst, but which Senator Bristow agreed to prove by producing original telegrams that had been paid for out of Senate funds.

From these personal accusations, the debate went into the general field of public lecturing and writing, and Democratic Senators called attention to the Chautauqua platform work of Senator Bristow and many others, and to the newspaper writing that Senator Bristow had done during the last Baltimore convention. The Kansan emphatically declared that he had never neglected the duties of his office.

"I am not on trial here," he said. "I simply want to show that people who live in glass houses should not throw stones," said Senator James.

Senators Bristow, Townsend, Fall and others attacked in strong language the action of Secretary Bryan in delivering paid lectures during a time when they claimed public questions required his close attention to the affairs of the State Department.

The Bristow resolution introduced on Tuesday instructing the President to state what salary would secure Secretary Bryan's time was tabled by a vote of forty-one to twenty-nine, as soon as it came up to-day, all the Democrats and Senators Borah and Poindexter opposing it.

Senator Bristow ignored the defeat of his resolution directed at Bryan's action and launched into a severe criticism of the cabinet officer.

Before the debate ended, charges and counter charges between members of the two sides of the chamber brought the Senate to a high pitch.

Senators Poindexter and Borah voted with the Democrats to table the resolution. The vote was 41 to 29.

As the vote was announced, Senator Bristow faced the Democratic Senators and declared:

"You may shut off debate in the Senate, but you can not convince the American people that a Secretary of State may neglect the duties of his office for three months in the year."

Vice President Marshall ruled Senator Bristow out of order.

"It would be just as reasonable for the Attorney General to take three months off a year to practice law," shouted Senator Bristow, who refused to be shut out. "I think there is a condition before the country that should demand the attention of Congress and the administration in power."

"Are you really apprehensive," interrupted Senator Vardaman, a Democrat, "that the business of the State department will suffer because Mr. Bryan is occasionally away?"

"It has been said, since this discussion arose," returned Bristow, "that the State department is better off with the Secretary away than with him here. But I believe if the Secretary would give to the problems before him the powers of his great intellect, he would perform a great service to the country. Whether he subordinates in his department are better fitted to attend to the duties than he, I do not know."

Senator Fall suggested that if Secretary Bryan had remained at his post, the Senate would have had an answer to its resolution of April 24, asking for the amount of damages to victims of Mexican troubles.

The debate developed into a sharp exchange between Senator Bristow and Senator Ashurst, when the latter read a letter intended to show that Bristow, years ago, had expressed a wish to be an "Isthmian Canal Commissioner," with the suggestion that he need not spend much time "on the job."

On Thursday, owing to a spread rail, the engine of the work train was wrecked here. Nobody was hurt, but the engine and its tender were badly broken up. Mr. J. M. Fallon, railroad agent here, reports the business of the road unusually large for this season of the year.

Mrs. J. M. Fallon, assistant telegraph operator here, has returned home from a visit to relatives and friends at Owensboro.

Mrs. Virginia Mitchell, widow of Dr. B. F. Mitchell, is now in her 77th year and is in good health for one of her age. She lives with her son, Alfred Mitchell, transfer and mail agent from here to Fordsville. A few days ago she was visited by her cousin, John Hedden, of Mt. Carmil, Ill.

Blackberry picking is nearly over here. The berries are small and not as good as in former years. The family of Alfred Mitchell have picked over 150 gallons and are yet picking them.

Wheat threshing is done here. The crop was small but the wheat is good.

Some of the corn and tobacco looks well but the garden products are about destroyed by the long drouth. But little fruit will be raised in this community.

Miss Edith Mitchell, of Ellmitch, and Miss Ruth Mercer, of Fordsville, are now drawing copies of the Col. Edwin Forbes map entitled: "Col. Edwin Forbes' Rough Map From Mitchell to Jones' Station, Ohio county, Ky.," showing some of the places east of Fordsville visited by Mr. and Mrs. James Barr, of Glasgow, Scotland, in fall of 1901.

Mr. Estlin Keown and family, of near Free (old Bennettsville, Hancock county), is now visiting relatives near here. Mr. Keown talks sadly of the wreck of old Bennettsville and the fortunes lost by a New York company in trying to turn a coal bank into the richest gold mine in the civilized world.

JUDGES DISAGREE OVER THE PRIMARY BALLOTS

Merry Squabble in Pulaski County As to Number Each Party Gets.

Somerset, Ky., July 19.—A conflict has arisen between the Pulaski County Court and the Pulaski Circuit Court over the number of ballots to be printed for the August primary. County Judge R. C. Tartar issued an order, directing the County Court Clerk to have printed only 50 per cent. more ballots for each of the three political parties than was polled by that party in the last Presidential election. Circuit Judge Bethurum, who was at a Northern resort for his health, hurried home and Wednesday ordered that the County Court Clerk have printed such number of ballots as the governing members of each party thought would be necessary.

Each Judge holds that his court has jurisdiction in the matter, and each says his orders must be obeyed by the clerk. Judge Tartar, in defending his course before Circuit Judge Bethurum, before whom the case was argued, said his orders would be carried out if he had to call out the State militia.

Judge Bethurum, in rendering his decision, said that the records showed, and he knew, that a greater part of the Republicans who voted with the Progressive party last November had no idea of leaving the Republican party, and wanted to vote this year in the Republican primary, and if only 50 per cent. more ballots were distributed than were cast last election, that hundreds of voters would be disfranchised. This is the situation that the County Clerk is up against, and as the case cannot be appealed, the people are wondering what will be the outcome.

Judge Tartar is a candidate for County Judge on the Progressive ticket, and is the leader of the party in this county. In the last election the Progressives cast more votes than the Republicans.

Snake Attacks Woman.

Lima, O., July 20.—A four-foot blinding viper, which lay coiled on a ledge above a cellar doorway, struck at Mrs. Rachel Gilmore, 45 years old, wife of a farmer, as she entered the cellar of her home this afternoon and lodged in her hair. When her husband arrived, the woman, weakened from exhaustion, had fallen to the ground, but she clutched the writhing snake, which still clung to her hair.

Alvin Burton Dead.

A Monroe Mich., paper says: Alvin Burton was born at Hartford, Ky., October 22, 1831, and died July 1, 1913. He was married December 15, 1908, to Miss Bessie Green, of this place. Before his marriage he was a private in the U. S. army, later recruiting officer stationed at this place. He was a thoroughbred in Detroit for two years. During the last year he worked at the River Raisin paper mills, where he contracted blood poison which caused his death. He is survived by his wife and two little children and many friends here, besides a mother, six sisters and three brothers and many relatives in Kentucky. He was a loving husband and a kind and indulgent father. The interment was in Woodland cemetery.

The Children's Day exercises at Cool Springs second Sunday were a complete success. An audience of fully a thousand people was present. A bountiful dinner was served and splendid music was furnished by the Matanzas choir. A forceful and inspiring sermon by the pastor, Rev. Tow, of Bowling Green, was delivered at eleven a. m.

Surprise Birthday Dinner.

On Sunday morning, July 13, 1913, the friends and relatives of Mr. Hamblin Taylor celebrated his 56th birthday at the home of his brother, Byron Taylor, near Cromwell.

Mr. Taylor's home is in Black Rock, Ark., but he is visiting relatives in Kentucky this summer.

The human family is prone to wander from the place of their birth, it makes no difference where. Some time in his wandering years turns his gaze back to the place where 'he first saw the light of day, and like the wandering boy of old, comes back to the old home spot, there to see the ones he loved in his childhood days. So on this occasion, the friends of Hamblin Taylor came to the home of his brother Byron, with baskets filled with the choicest food that could be imagined until the table fairly groaned under its weight.

Everyone spent a pleasant day and wish for him many more happy birthdays.

A Family Reunion.

On Sunday, July 13, 1913, the children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Phelps gave them a very pleasant surprise by each child preparing and bringing to their home a well filled basket. By 10 a. m. the family had all arrived. At 12 o'clock promptly dinner was served. In the afternoon ice cream and other refreshments were served. About 4:30 the family group was photographed by Mr. Daugherty, of Simmons, Ky. All enjoyed the very pleasant reunion.

PAINT CREEK COLLIERIES RECOGNIZE MINERS' UNION

First Break in Ranks of Coal Operators Occurs—Beginning of the End.

Charleston, W. Va., July 16.—The Paint Creek Collieries Company, operating nine mines on Paint Creek, signed the agreement of the United Mine Workers of America to-day and the miners' strike on that creek is expected to be called off at once. A strike is still in force on Cablin Creek, which adjoins.

The action of the Paint Creek collieries to-day constituted the first break among the operators since the strike began in the West Virginia coal fields over sixteen months ago. The company extended formal recognition to the United Mine Workers of America, a concession which came as a surprise and only after a bitter fight.

The West Virginia coal strike had its inception in the Paint Creek coal field, April 1, 1911. Since that time there has been rioting, bloodshed, martial law and an investigation by a committee of the United States Senate.

By the terms of the agreement, the check-off system, abandoned eight years ago, is restored and also the right to employ a check weighman. The net ton is provided.

The agreement was reached through President W. L. Connel, of Scranton, Pa., of the Paint Creek Collieries Company, and President John P. White and Vice President Hayes, of the miners' organization. White and Hayes returned to Indianapolis to-night. Through to-day's settlement it is believed other coal strikes in West Virginia are in a fair way of adjustment.

MUCH HYDROPHOBIA IN KENTUCKY AT PRESENT

State Board Health Issues Warning Against Unmuzzled Dogs At Large.

Warning of the prevalence of hydrophobia in Kentucky and condemnation of the practice of allowing unmuzzled dogs to run at large are contained in resolutions adopted by the State Board of Health in its regular meeting at the Hotel Henry Watterson, Louisville, last week. The board also expressed the belief that, because of numerous deaths from whooping cough and measles within the year, persons suffering from these ailments should be kept isolated and not allowed the use of public conveyances.

The announcement was made that $25,000 appropriated by Congress to combat trachoma in the Kentucky mountains became available July 1 and that as far as possible the campaign will be under the supervision of the State Board. Where it is practicable the sufferers will be treated in their own homes. An effort is being made by Dr. Arthur McCormack, of Bowling Green, a member of the board, who is now in Washington for that purpose, to obtain the use of the United States Marine Hospital at Louisville for the treatment of more advanced cases.

The August American Magazine.

The August American Magazine is a fiction number and leads off with the first installment of a new serial by Ives Haynes Gillmore entitled "Angel Island." Mrs. Gillmore is the author of the celebrated "Phoebe and Ernest" stories. The scene of this new story is laid on an uninhabited island where, owing to a shipwreck, five men are stranded and there put to work on their problem under primitive conditions. In the course of the story five women are to be introduced into the community and the tale is to center around the solution under the various difficulties that arise. Mrs. Gillmore is an ardent suffragist, and while in her new story the romance is always paramount, the story symbolizes the whole feminist movement with a vividness, a concreteness, impossible in the most ably written narrative of fact.

John A. Moroso writes a remarkable short story having to do with a life in a skyscraper; John Talbot Foote writes a horse-race story; and William Hawley Smith contributes a rat story. George Fitch, Stephen Leacock and James Montgomery Flagg—all humorous writers—present stories and sketches.

"NOW PRAY," SAID GEORGE, "I'M GOING TO KILL YOU!"

And the Threat Is Carried Out— Georgian Finds Man In Wife's Bedroom.

Savannah, Ga., July 17.—F. Lathrop George to-day shot and killed Henry McClellan, an employee of the city, whom he found in an apartment occupied by his wife, from whom he is separated.

George surrendered immediately after the shooting. Recently George indicated that he was suspicious of McClellan, and yesterday he endeavored to have peace warrants sworn out for McClellan, but was dissuaded.

After assuring himself that McClellan was in the house occupied by his wife, George entered. He said he found the man, ordered him to get down on his knees and pray, as he intended to kill him. McClellan did not comply immediately, and the first shot was fired.

McClellan then left the bed and got on his knees and begged George not to shoot again. George fired three shots into the body of McClellan. Thinking that McClellan was dead, George went to the home of his mother, where he left his revolver. He then hunted up an officer and surrendered, saying that he had killed a man.

McClellan was partially undressed when assistance reached him. He was hurried to a hospital but died on the way without having spoken a word. Mrs. George was in the back yard when the shooting took place. She refuses to discuss the incident. George accuses McClellan of having broken up his home.

He says he was forced to leave his wife several weeks ago on account of McClellan. He says that knowing the habits of his man, he was certain he would find him in his wife's room.
